- Grapevine channels carry information rapidly. As soon as an employee gets some confidential information, they quickly pass it on to his closest friends who in turn pass it to others.
 - The managers get to know the reactions on their subordinates on their policies. Feedback obtained is quick as compared to formal channels.
 - The grapevine creates a sense of unity among the employees who share and discuss their views with each other. It helps in developing group cohesiveness.
 - Grapevine serves as an emotional supportive value.
 - Grapevine is a supplement in those cases where formal communication does not work.
