

Q. 2. 4+1=5

Q2 A The following are the set of instructions on how to generate a link in google meet.

1. Go to the play store
2. Download and install the google meet app
3. On your device, to open the app, tap the google meet app.

Calls are synchronized so you can start a video call on one device and continue on another.

In order to start a meet

- ① Open the meet app.
- ② Tap New meeting
- ③ Select an option:

• Get a meeting link to share: This generates a meeting link you can share to meet now or later. To invite others, tap share invite, to join the meeting copy the code into the "join with a code" field.

Tip: Google workspace users are sent get joining information to share. This works exactly like the "get a meeting link to share".

- 4 • Start an Instant meeting: Create a meeting that you join now.

Q2 C

ONE CANNOT COMMUNICATE.

Communication happens all the time, also if we are not to say anything at all.

If you don't believe it, try it out yourself! During your next conversation with your friend or partner just stop talking, it will be harder than you expect to keep up the silence for more than five or ten seconds, it will be awkward and the person you were having a conversation with will most possibly be confused. This shows that you communicated something, whether that was a lack of interest, ignorance or something else. I am sure that you have also ~~made~~ made the following experience; A person is entering the climbing gym and you already know that he or she is in a bad mood before you have even talked a word with him or her.
