Q 2] c]

'One cannot not communicate' :-

According to this there is no way one cannot not communicate. We are always communicating; even the silence sends out a message. Verbal or non-verbal, even the lack of action sends a message. Silence may be an implicit message to others. One cannot respond in a communication, though this is communicating too.

Non verbal actions send a message too. For example, one cannot to confirm an action. This has a message value too. Or cannot not respond to this communication, it's a way of communicating too.

Any perceivable behaviour, including absence of action, has the potential to be interpreted by other people as having some meaning. It does not imply that what we are communicating must be understood by the other.
